Dear JC Jones Clients and Friends,

We hope that you and your family, friends and employees are staying safe and healthy during these unprecedented times.

Our team continues to work remotely on a full-time basis, and we continue to serve our existing clients as well as new businesses reaching out to us for assistance.

Working remotely is not as strange a concept for our team as it may be for other industries or businesses. Even before the Covid 19 virus, we regularly worked remotely as we served our clients and communicated with each other via email, phone and Skype. Continuing in this manner for the foreseeable future will not obstruct our ability to provide our clients with Clarity, Creativity, and Results.

As you may know, the people on our team each have decades of industry experience and we are well-versed in working through times of crisis. Whether those hard-won experiences came from guiding a client through a business turnaround, or from one of the many crises that have tried to slow our nation down over the past few decades, our team of senior leaders has successfully navigated times like this before.

These experiences have taught us that, while it's important to take care of urgent and critical matters that will support your business today, it's equally important to continue thinking about the future of your company and making plans that will increase success in the long-run.

Please stay safe and healthy and we hope that we can all emerge with renewed energy in the near future.

Sincerely,

The JC Jones Advisory Services Team
